Commencement 2014

Now graduates, it is time to carry the magic of home into the circle of life.
In this new journey, I hope you are not caused too much strife.
Now if you begin to roam,
Follow the yellow brick road to return home.

There you will find the magic you once lost,
But don't worry nothing will it cost.
The magic is restored in your heart once again,
So dance to the songs of life and your familiar beat will begin.

Spread the magic of home everywhere you go,
And everyone you meet will shout "Whoa!"
Surely you have left a handprint on their heart,
Aren't you glad the magic was restored?
It gave you another start!

As you grow older and wiser in the circle of life,
Unfortunately you will receive more and more strife!
So when you lose a little magic and begin to roam,
Always follow the yellow brick road to return home!

Letter from the Editor

So now it is time to say goodbye. We have completed this yearbook. It is hard to believe that for three years I have served as Editor-in-Chief of the Oak Leaves, and I leave a little bitter sweet. I would like to thank the staff for all of their dedication and hard work, our Meredith Advisor, Dr. Rebecca Duncan, and our Jostens Advisor, Kim Trezona. This particular book holds a very dear place in my heart. I feel it is the hardest my staff has worked in three years, and I am oh so very proud. I hope that you enjoy this year's edition as much as our staff enjoyed making it.

Notice the title, "Handprints on our Hearts." What exactly does this even mean? I know it is a little cheesy, but really think about it. First, it was named in honor of my parents for the handprints they have left on my heart. Secondly, it honors the people in the Meredith community, and the Class of 2014 who have left their handprints. As Meredith women we are taught to leave a mark, whether it be as little as sharing a smile or opening a door to being the first female President. We as Meredith women naturally leave a mark, and it is more than just a mark. We leave handprints on peoples' hearts.

As freshwomen, we leave our happy, comfortable, humble abodes to embark on a bigger journey to discover ourselves, to see who we think we are, and who we want to be. We encounter many people and discover many things. At these times, handprints are left on our hearts, and those people help shape and mold who we become. These people may be your big sis, your roommate, suitemate, classmates, staff/faculty, or professors.

As sophomores, we are just getting settled. We are still learning the ins and outs, meeting new people, and defining who we are. Not only are people leaving handprints on us, but we too are leaving handprints on others. Our bigs who left many handprints on hearts are stepping out into the world. As juniors, we are settled in, happy, content, and pretty comfortable with who we are. Now we are mentors. We are the upperclassmen. We are leading by example, and sharing the love our bigs shared with us to our new lils. We are mentoring many, but still being mentored ourselves. At this point we are a bit older, getting more and more prepared for the world ahead.

As seniors, we are about to take that next step in life. We are who we are because of the people that have left handprints on our hearts, but what we don't really know is the impact we have made on the people around us. Now it is time to take the light that we gained while at good ol' MC and leave handprints on peoples' hearts all around the world. We have this special light we received from a special place that we call home that we now must share.

I hope the Class of 2014 left more than just a mark on campus, but left handprints on many hearts. I think that we did, so be thankful for that and now leave handprints on the world. The world needs a little bit of Meredith College everywhere.

Love,
Lacy Pfeiffer '14

Love,

As you step outside of the Meredith gate,
We hope you encounter only things that are great.
Leave handprints on the hearts of many,
As you have left yours on your Meredith community.
